

Betty in Canada.

MISS BERNICE B. SMITH

Librarian-English

A most attractive binding. This volume is the chronicle of an unusual, unconventional, independent young woman transplanted in a new field.

Dad.

C. E. BROWN

Poultry

"Dad" is an electric bundle of spicy originality. His homespun philosophies and prophesies, his kindly digs at folks and things and his unfailing good humor are as practical as an old gingham apron.

"It pays to advertise."

A Little Volume of Woman's Rights.

MISS ALICE E. GLISE

Assistant in Home Economics

A story that possesses the qualifications which endear it to seekers for true worth. The heroine is a "professional" in the art of making folks see the truth of "as you sew, so shall you also rip." The title of the book tells the heroine's favorite theme. Withal a rare specimen of womanly kindness and gentleness.

"Why don't you consult a homeopath?"
