

When a Man is Married.

A. H. LARSON      Debating and Academic Subjects

This popular story takes the hero in evolution from single cussedness to nuptial blessedness and shows how his good nature, his ability, his kindness, and his avoirdupois have increased. Every page is a radial point of cheer and good nature; all this "because he's married now."

Euphony of Nature.

MISS M. LUCILLE HOLLIDAY      Music

This musical book is among the latest additions to the A. C. library. The heroine's ability is a perpetual crescendo. Her forte tones command the attention of every auditor. Her singing keeps her attentive listeners in a continuous run of delight.

"Hit it hard."

The Bright Eyes of Danger.

F. L. KENNARD      Agronomy

To become thoroughly versed in science one must know this book, whose hero carries sunshine in one hand and danger in the other, a man with keen power of judgment and a feeling of fellowship towards all.

"Say now, let's behave back there and quit squeaking those seats."
