 When you're down, you're down,
 When you're up against the Freshmen,
 You're upside down!

The class of 1920 surpasses in number, brilliancy and progressiveness all preceding Freshman classes. It is most unusual for a class to break into prominence during its first year of existence, but this class has proven itself an exception to this rule. In athletics, and debate, in fact in all school activities, they have persistently maintained a most creditable record. Undoubtedly much of their success is due to the generous and able guidance given them by their class advisors, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith. The class of 1922 is firm in their resolution to allow nothing to interfere with their efforts toward the accomplishment of their aims as expressed in their class motto: “Onward ever; backward never.”
