

Music

Music is not an ornament to life, but has as serious and vital a part to play as religion or philosophy. During the late war, it was often said, "A victorious army is a music-loving army." This applies in the same manner to our everyday life. It may truly be said, "A progressive community is a music-loving community." In schools and colleges, music not only serves as a means of recreation, but it is also one of the essentials for developing school spirit. That music is appreciated, and that it is an essential part of school life is shown by the fact that the music department is always called upon during the year to assist other departments and organizations in their programs.

It has always been the purpose of this institution to develop a love of music, and this year, through the untiring efforts of Miss Pederson, director of the music department, it has made wonderful progress.

Interest in music has been stimulated to such an extent that more students than usual applied for special instruction in piano and voice, necessitating the purchase of three new pianos and the engaging of an additional instructor, Miss Julia Aune, of Crookston.

The musical organizations consists of band, orchestra, chorus, two boys' glee clubs, a girls' glee club, and three octettes. The regular classes are instructed in musical appreciation, ear training and sight reading.
