Mr. Larson in Ancient History: "What is a memorable date in history?"

Little Archie, raising his hand: "Antony's date with Cleopatra."

Mr. Bengtson, in Civics: "The Judge of Probate solemnizes marriages and examines persons for sanity."

"What is a 'head on' in a collision?"

It's a collision in which you keep your head.

Miss Burns: "Is there nobody in the class that carries a dictionary?"

Melvin Bengtson: "No, what do you want to know?"

Mr. Smith, in Junior Chemistry Class: "What is $H_2 SO_4$?"

"Mr. Lee, what does H_2O stand for?"

Mr. Lee: "Water."

Mr. Smith: "Correct. Now who can tell us what the S stands for?"

Bright Junior Class: No Answer.

Mr. Smith: "Mr. Monson, spell the word which begins with S that you are thinking of."

Mr. Monson: "S-M-E-A-R."

Freshman: "What is a chaperon?"

Senior: "Something good to eat."

Miss Burns: "Give the declension of the pronoun HE."

Mr. Tucker: "He—her—is."

Chicken Pox

Chicken pox is a disease
Which is conquered with great ease,
When you get it, you must pine
Two weeks in the quarantine.
You spend your time in reading books,
Cracking jokes and cursing cooks;
Thinking that your lot is hard,—
Never thinking of your pard,
Who with the "Flu" is laid abed,
Thinking, "Oh, I'll soon be dead."
After all, the pox ain't bad,
It's the best that can be had.
