The foot-ball season started off with a jump on the first day of school, with Prof. A. M. Foker as coach. As soon as the duties of registration were over there appeared on the field a husky bunch of candidates anxious to begin practice. Five members of last year's team were the nucleus upon which to build. The fall was an exceptionally warm one so, considering the late start, the team developed into a smooth working machine before the season closed. In the first practice game with Crookston High School, the boys acquitted themselves creditably. The high school boys, already in mid-season form, had to exert themselves to the utmost to stop the runs and passes of the Aggies. The first real game of the season was played with Warren, at Crookston, developing into a 12 to 6 defeat for the home team.

The boys played first class football throughout the entire game and held their more experienced opponents to a tie until the last few minutes of play. The long runs of Captain Ness, the plunges of Forder, the passing of Skime, and the receiving of W. Johnson were easily the features of the game.

The next game was played at Ada against the Ada High school team. The game ended in a six to six tie. The work of Ness was again spectacular. Gibbons played a great defensive game and W. Johnson made some long gains with the forward pass. Anderson, in the line, was called upon to carry the ball quite frequently, and always made good gains.
