

Gladycy: "Is this the Red River Aggie?"
Myrtle E.: "Oh, no, it's from the N. W. S. A."

Darwinism.

Darwin: "Father, are caterpillars good to eat?"
Mr. McCall: "Why, Darwin, you mustn't say such things."
Darwin: "Well, you just ate one on your lettuce."

Miss Burns: "Give me a passage from Shakespeare."
Victor N: "There were cannons in front of them, cannons on all sides of them, but on rode the six hundred."

Doctor: "You cough with much greater ease this morning."
LaVerne: "I ought to; I've been practicing all night."

Mr. Peck (in Physics): "What is an A. C. current?"
Kenneth: "The one which runs to the Agricultural College."

Mr. Smith (in Economics) "Give a definition for money."
Leland L: "Something that's hard to get and easy to spend."

Mr. McCall: "Where are the tropics?"
Freshie: "They start at the south pole and are on both sides of it."

Mr. Clark (in Rural Sociology): "Did you say there were nine sections of land and only fourteen families?"

Negaard: "Yes, sir, and three bachelors and four old maids."

President: "Will someone make the motion as to when we will give the operetta?"
Kasberg: "I move that we don't give it before it is ready."

AT ROBERTSON HALL.

Miss Ward: "Gladys, when did Charlotte come in last night?"
Gladys: "At one o'clock."
Miss Ward: "Are you sure? Is it possible that she came in that late?"
Gladys: "Yes, I'm sure."
Miss Ward: "How do you know?"

Senior Girl: "Have you a date for tonight?"
Second Girl: "No, I won't have one, either."
Freshie (overhearing conversation): "Say, girls, what really is a date?"
Senior Girl: "Something like a prune."

A bunch of Junior girls in one room during study hours, practicing the broad jump for the Field Meet. Enter Preceptress (Rosalind).

"Girls, please close your storm window."

Junior Girls: "We just closed it."

Esther Sandem, to Minnie Torpet: "Come on, let's go to our room before we are caught in here again."

A knock is heard, a scramble, and then Una (faintly), "Come in."

Miss Bruem: "You girls were making a lot of noise." After talking a while, a choking laugh is heard from under the bed.

Discovered!?!?!
— — —

Knock! Knock!!
Rosalind: "Say, don't you know it's study hours?"
Enter Miss Ward.