

POULTRY HUSBANDRY

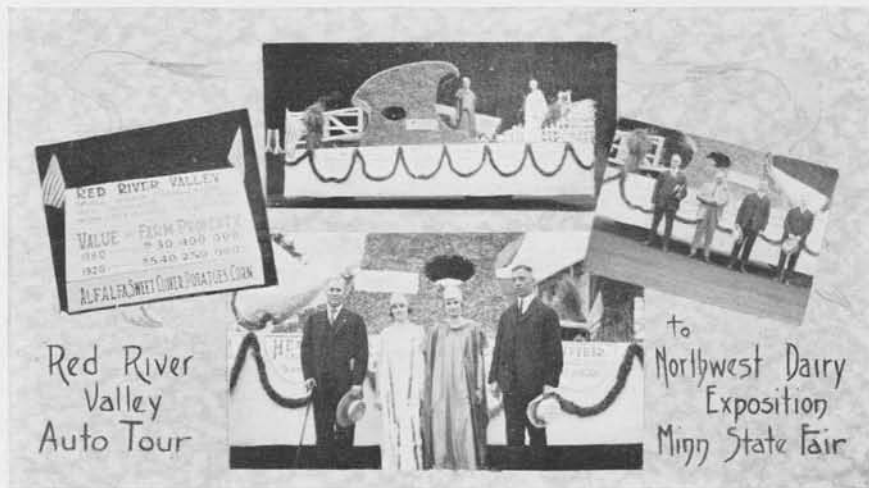

A. M. PILKEY
Manitoba Agricultural College
Poultry Husbandry
CROOKSTON, MINN.

POULTRY is taught as a part of the regular course of study outlined for the students of all three years.

The course includes a study of farm poultry, importance and modern development of poultry industry; size, location, principles of construction and essentials of a good poultry house; and the proper care of flocks.

Each student is given actual practice in fattening birds for market, having the entire care of them for a term of three weeks. Other practical work includes flock culling, killing and dressing of the fowl ready for the oven.

Red River Valley Auto Tour to State Fair

THE Northwest School, cooperating with all organizations in the Red River Valley, brought to the attention of the people in the Twin Cities and the 1924 Minnesota State Fair, the great agricultural resources of the northwestern section of the state. These resources were vividly portrayed in the two floats that preceded the Red River Valley auto delegation through the Twin Cities to the State Fair on Monday, September 1, 1924.
