

WALLACE MILLER

played a more brilliant game this year than he did last. Besides playing quarterback and also doing some of the passing and punting, he had the reputation of being the best ball carrier on the team. Wallace had fighting spirit and confidence which gained for our team many first downs. His position will be hard to fill.

HOWARD BALK

playing his second year at center, proved to be one of the best centers in this section, although suffering from a severe knee injury. This did not seem to bother his passing to any extent. Howard also played a strong defensive game, intercepting a pass at one time and making it good for a touchdown. This also completes his foot ball career.

FRANK GROVES

deserves the credit of playing on every line position on the team. Frank has qualities that make him a good man wherever he plays. At both center and end, he showed up well during the season.

OSCAR FORSETH

playing his first year of foot ball, from fullback position, distinguished himself as being a first class player. He hit the opposing line hard and caused much worry for opposing tacklers. On defense, Oscar was also a strong man, and he carried the heavy burden of place kicking in which he distinguished himself by the trueness and accuracy of his kick.

ROBERT DAVIDS

although beginning the season as a substitute, ended as a regular guard. This shows that he had valuable qualities as a foot ball player.
