WHERE GET-TOGETHER DINNERS ARE HELD

Thanksgiving Day

Better than three centuries after the landing of the Pilgrims, and the first Thanksgiving Day set aside for them, the students of this school met at the Dining-hall to give thanks, for the blessings of the past year. After the prize had been awarded for the best decorated table, the students enjoyed a turkey dinner. In the afternoon, a program was given in the auditorium. After the program and a light lunch, everyone enjoyed a good time, either at the dance which was held in the gymnasium, or at the party held in the school cafeteria.

Junior-Senior Banquet

On March 7, the annual Junior-Senior banquet became history. "Negro life in the South" was the theme of the evening. The banquet room was transformed into a land of cotton and dark faces. A number of Southern spirituals were given by the advanced quartette. That famous chicken debate "Resolved that Stealing Chickens Ain't No Crime," was given by four members of the Junior Class. The toast to our Seniors was given by Teddy Carlson, and responded to by Loren Parkin. Superintendent C. G. Selvig extended greetings to the guests. Community singing of Southern songs brought the evening to a close.

Stunt Night

A series of original well-staged productions made up the program for the annual Stunt Night, February 26. Groups of students under the supervision of student captains put on the stunts. Some of these were "An A. C. Clinic," "A Public Speaking Program," "An Athletic Exhibition," "A Mock Trial," and the Faculty Quartette, accompanied by Miss Rose Polski
