

The Red River Aggie

Oh, the Seniors they come from the East and the West,
To their fair Alma Mater Minnesota has sent her best,
They stayed not for poor crops, they stopped not for rain
But with minds set on culture to these halls they came.

Full many have come from tree land and plain,
And many in cities their home they can claim;
But, although they may differ in places of birth,
You may search far and wide; there's none better on earth.

Here's a greeting to you that is hearty and glad;
Although you'll soon leave us, we'll feel lonesome and sad.
To have known you has been a great pleasure indeed
We wish you success in the lives you may lead.

Sincerely yours,

MR. and MRS. A. M. PILKEY,

Class Advisers.