

To the Class of 1929:

The passing of this school year brings to a successful conclusion the work of another worthy group of Northwest School students.

We now have the pleasure of congratulating you on work well done, and feel confident that you will go forth to your respective tasks well equipped to meet the changing problems of life. You will find that true education cannot be measured by the number of years spent in school, but will be judged by your ability to appreciate good books, good music, and the arts, as well as a thorough knowledge of the business in which you are engaged. Consequently, the aim of each member of the staff has been not merely to pass on information of a technical nature, but to stimulate interest in those higher things in life.

It is our hope that the members of this class will maintain, through the years to come, the high standards set by former graduates.

We congratulate you most heartily and wish you God Speed on your journey through life.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. Dowell.
