

To the Class of 1930

Members of the faculty have enjoyed three pleasant years with the young men and women who are about to join the ever-increasing ranks of the Alumni of the Northwest School of Agriculture. It has been our aim, at all times to do something more than merely pass on information of a technical nature. We have been interested in developing those higher qualities which are so essential to a worth-while life, the kind of a life that will be filled with a personal satisfaction that comes only from service to the home community, the state and the nation.

As the years roll by, we confidently expect the members of this class to climb to lofty heights. We will not only point with pride to those who rise above their fellow men, but perhaps cherish the inward feeling that we played some small part in making their achievement possible.

Every member of the faculty joins in extending heartiest congratulations and best wishes as the Class of 1930 steps out into the world filled with opportunities for service.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. DOWELL.
