1931 Basketball

Basketball at the Northwest School has undergone an important change with the building of the new gymnasium. The increased size of the basketball court has largely been responsible for this.

In past years the teams of this school have been seriously handicapped by the small gym. In many instances our teams have suffered defeat at the hands of other teams on larger floors. This year our cagers have had opportunity to master the technique of basketball on a large floor.

There were approximately forty-five boys who reported for basketball the first night of practice in the new gym. Among the many new prospects there were four letter men from past years' teams.

Harold (Fargo) Nelson, the captain elect, for the 1930-31 quintet, was unable to return to school, much to the sorrow of his fellow teammates. His absence has been keenly felt by all concerned, but our loss will be the gain of the next year's team.

The Northwest School has also for a number of years boasted of a strong second team. This year's team has proved to be no exception. Among the second team members there are several who will receive letters, and there are a number of boys that will be back next year as material for the first team. Much of the school honors go to the second teams.

Lawrence Elton and Thomas Cain, the famous sharpshooters of the Aggie team play their swan game this year.
