Grain Judging

Grain judging is one of our major inter-school activities. Each year a team of two men and an alternate is selected to represent this school in the contest held during Winter Shows Week. Agricultural schools from Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Manitoba, Canada, compete for the championship cup. Classes of all common grains are placed and reasons given on these placings. One hundred and twenty samples of cereals, forage crops, potatoes, and noxious weeds are identified, either in seed samples or plant specimens.

Our team won the championship this year with a total score of 3762 out of a possible 4100, 34 points ahead of our nearest competitor. This is the third time we have won this cup, so it now becomes the permanent property of the Northwest School.

The team consisted of Ingolf Swanson and Clinton Donley, with Arvin Gorden as alternate, and was coached by Mr. R. S. Dunham.

The squad of nine men who trained so faithfully provided splendid material from which the team was selected this year, and will also serve as a nucleus for next year's team.

Livestock Judging

This year's livestock judging team was picked from the class in advanced livestock judging, which met four times a week during the fall semester. The number of men taking part in the preliminary tryouts insured keen competition for places on the team. The week previous to the Winter Shows the four high men made a special trip to the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo for two days of intensive practice.

Teams from agricultural schools in North Dakota, South Dakota, and Minnesota took part in the final contest held during the week of the Red River Valley Winter Shows.

Although we were not able to retain possession of the cup, won last year, our boys placed first in the beef, dairy and sheep classes, and captured third place in the entire contest.

The team, which was coached by Mr. O. M. Kiser, was composed of Halbert Johnson, Roy Boman, and Herbert Hanson, with Lloyd Chapman as alternate.
