

Bright Sayings

Christian Holte: "A good resolution is like a fainting woman! it should be carried out immediately."

Miss Hughbanks: (Reprimanding sleeping student): "You're the first one that's fallen to sleep on me."

John Yutrzenka (after terrific struggle, finally finished his examination paper, looked it over sadly, and then at the end, wrote): "Dear Professor: If you sell any of my answers to the funny papers, I hope you will split fifty-fifty with me."

Mrs. Pilkey left David in charge of Sanna and in due time, he began to cry. In desperation, Sanna hurried to Ruth Pilkey and said, "Where does your mother keep the directions that came with David?"

Morris Engelstad: "Say, there, this Campus used to be a lake, didn't it?"

Clinton Donley: "Yes, and I find it is still very much like a lake."

Morris: "I don't see any water."

Clinton: "No, but the place is still full of crabs."

Miss Lippitt: "Girls, you should eat food that will develop your craniums. Can you suggest menus containing such foods?"

Home Management Class: "Noodle soup, head cheese, and cocoanut pie."

Miss Kingston—"Two good aids to health are to swim regularly and drink plenty of water."

Elizabeth Erickson (learning to swim) "Yes, but I don't like to do both at the same time."

Agatha Olson—"Who is that?"

Lois Sargent—"That's a Professor. Let's go over and sit down. He might do something absent minded."

Miss Bede asked the meat cutting class in a withering voice: "How do you account for the fact that there was a piece of rubber tire in one of the sausages you sent to the Home Practice Cottage?"

Mr. Kiser (coming to the rescue): "Oh, Miss Bede, that just serves as an illustration of how the motor car is replacing the horse everywhere nowadays."

Would You Believe It?

Helen Naplin (watching Freshmen-Junior kittenball game): "I thought you said that you could catch flies?"

Helmer Nornes: "I did, but that one must have been a bee."

Violet Solmonson: "Have you given the goldfish fresh water, Olive?"

Olive Heegaard: "No, they ain't finished the water I gave them yesterday yet."

Miss Bede: "Carrie has an unusually high I. Q."

Mrs. Geer (next day): "Most of the Seniors have high H<sub>2</sub>O's, don't they?"

Mr. Christgau: "What do you mean by deficit?"

Christian Holte: "It's what you've got when you haven't as much as you had when you had nothing."

Mr. Dowell (assembly announcement): "Miss Kingston wishes all the Basketball girls to dress before going to Benson's for their pictures."

(Laughter). "I see you all approve of Miss Kingston's suggestion."

Mr. Mlinar. "John, will you take the next problem?"

John Pearson (flustered and nervous): "8 scared plus six"—(class roars and bell rings.)

Mr. Mlinar: "All right, test for tomorrow. Now, John, don't get scared."

Miss Bede: "What are you going to cook the pheasants in?"

Mrs. Geer: "Why, I thought I would use your vacuum cleaner."

Mr. Ocock: "You certainly eat well." Freshman: "I ought to. I've practiced all my life."

Wallace Abbott: "Miss Lippitt, I can't understand why there should be hair in my ice cream, hair in the honey, and hair in the apple sauce."

Miss Lippitt: "I can see how the hair might get in the ice cream, for we used shaved ice, and as to the hair in the honey, it no doubt came from the comb. But I can't see how the hair got into the apple sauce, for we used Baldwin apples."
