

Red River Aggie

“IN WHICH WE SAY OUR LAST”

There is nothing left for us to do but settle back to watch the presses roll off the work of our hearts; then to await your judgment.

In this last work of ours we, the members of the Senior Class, would be ungrateful, indeed, if we did not mention those who helped make this book possible.

To our class advisers, Mrs. Roy Hollander, and Miss Cynthia Weinberger, for their constant work and thought in preparing this Annual.

To our Superintendent, Dr. A. A. Dowell, for his very helpful suggestions.

To Mr. A. M. Foker for the Art work.

To Miss Bedard for her handling of our funds.

To Mr. St. Martin of the Crookston Times Printing Co., for his suggestions for printing and binding this volume.

To Mr. John Benson, of the Benson studio, for the unusually fine photography in this book.

To our advertisers we are grateful because of their generous contributions which have materially aided us in the publication of this volume.

To the students, whose patronage has enabled us to commemorate our Senior days in this lasting way.

We are sorry to see the Aggie completed because with it our work comes to an end. The feverish hours spent in assembling its contents have created a lasting friendship with the staff.

The spirit in which the work was done is just another indication of how truly we apply our school motto: “We serve”.

The satisfaction of achievement is ours—the book is yours.
