

*“Across the edges of the world there blows a wind,
Mysterious with perfume of a spring;
A spring that is not of the kindling earth,
That’s more than scent of bloom or gleam of bud;
The spring of God in flower.”*

