

Boys' Inter-Class Basketball

Boys' inter-class basketball teams serve two purposes—one to build up the class spirit that results from the competition with rival teams, the other to provide valuable preliminary training for eventual school squad members. The inter-class basketball schedule of six games for each class fulfills both of these objectives very ideally, as just as much enthusiasm is shown at the class games as we have exhibited at the inter-school games, while a check of squad members will reveal that most of them have had inter-class experience. The 1935 championship and trophy was won by the class of 1934 with six victories.

The 1936 inter-class schedule is half finished, with the class of 1935 leading with four victories and no defeats.
