Our cheerful and ever-helpful preceptress, Miss Bede, teaches us foods, cookery and Household Science, but her leisure time is spent in knitting. Leave it to her to change the subject at any time.

When she can't be found in the sewing room, in 202 of Hill, or at the Gym, look for Miss Kingston on third floor of Home Economics or in Robertson Hall—crocheting.

Besides being doctor and nurse to all of us, Miss Dahlen carries on her work with her classes in Home Nursing and Hygiene.

It's a job to manage a dining hall accommodating four hundred students and to teach Home Management to Senior girls, but Miss Lippitt never neglects her scrapbooks and Indian lore.

Miss Hughbanks very ably conducted her classes of Typing, Shorthand and Bookkeeping, but with the increasing enrollment she has been too busy so her classes are shared with Mr. Myster, the other teacher of Commercial subjects, who is by this time known as Mr. Myster rather than Mister Mister.

Our teacher of Tractor Construction, Advanced Electricity and Farm Shop, Mr. Promersberger has the honor of owning the longest name on the faculty as well as being an advisor of the Junior Class.

"Our Campus Candid Cameraman" is Mr. Rusk, whose pictures include everything from the Athletic Teams which he assists in coaching and the Freshmen Class which he advises, to his classes in Field Machinery and Motors.
