

Music - Academic Work

If you want to sing, take lessons of Miss Hennig or join the various vocal ensembles under her direction. The Senior Class is fortunate in having her for their advisor.

Each year brings more new Piano-students, but Miss Nelson graciously accommodates them all; part of her time is spent in conducting the school orchestra. We look forward through the year for her concert appearances.

A busy faculty member, the best all-around person in the Northwest. Besides English, Speech and Violin, Miss Warne does practically everything from scaring Freshmen to pampering Advanced.

English (Senior Research Papers!) can be plenty strenuous, but that is not all Miss Smith has to do. Under her able direction dramatics play an important role at this school. The Junior Class, too, looks to her for advice.

All of us can remember our days of Freshman English with Miss Lohn, another faculty song-bird. Her capability is also shown in her beautiful knitting. With Mr. Rusk, she shares the joys and sorrows of the Freshman Class.

Do we learn about our ancestry (Ancient History) or do we catch glimpses of our own and neighboring countries (Modern History) or do we learn just plain (English)? Yes, all three and then some—debate. Mr. Streeter especially works for and with the Seniors because he is a Senior Advisor.

Indispensable to the Northwest School is Mr. Mlinar, with whom we first become acquainted as Registrar, then as instructor of Mathematics and American History.
