Joe Widseth—played his first year for the Aggies and proved himself so valuable to the team that his teammates elected him captain. Joe is capable of the position and deserves it.

Roland Wentzel—is a veteran of the floor. He plays a cool and scientific game of ball. He is a tricky, and dependable man. He plays his best to the last.

Evans—has been playing pretty regularly. Woodrow is a good dependable player. When he gets into the lineup it means business for the opponents. Woodrow knows how to handle the ball.

Dahl—has been in every game and although he is a little lacking in height he can out-jump most of his opponents. Morris is also a good ball handler and a dead shot.

Cook—can dribble the ball as well as any star can. Fred shoots the ball and fakes a pass as easily as the best and when he shoots he makes it count.
