

SENIOR DAY

'Oh, We're the Happy Seniors'

Clothes worn by dad and mother were the style on the Northwest School campus when the annual Senior Day was observed. Black derbies, brown derbies, ruffles, lace, high top shoes, all were very much in evidence even though allowed to only the members of the Senior Class. It was Senior Day and Aggie Day. And the Seniors made merriment as they presented the 1939 Aggie to the student body.

Senior classes were a panic as boys visited the Home Management, Sewing and Nursing classes while girls in turn attended Farm Management, Blacksmithing, Carpentry and Motors.

The assembly program presented interesting skits typical of campus life. Faculty and student take-offs brought forth many howls from the audience.

As a climax to the assembly program and as the highlight of the day, the first copy of the 1939 Aggie was produced and presented to the dedicatee, Superintendent T. M. McCall. This was followed by the general distribution to the student body and the "sign my Aggie" rush was on.

Pictures: (top to bottom)

The class president, Evelyn Brandt, gets an embrace from beau, Vernon Magnusson.

The start of the hilarious Senior parade. Toot! Toot!

Senior belles. Aa'n't they cute?

Her excellency, the president, again and again her beau.

Ma and Pa and their big little girl.

Two of the Floradora girls.

It ain't Smith; just Bettels and Leona.

Manning and McFarland, My, my, my.

