

HOME PROJECTS

“In the Good Old Summertime”

To improve agricultural and home conditions in the Red River Valley—that is one of the aims of summer home project work.

Applying their learning of the winter months, Northwest School students carry on various agricultural or home economics projects on the home farm during the summer months.

Supervisors visit each student and assist with the work connected with the project. Reports are checked and filed and credit is given for satisfactory completion of the project requirements.

Parents' Day, held on the first Saturday in November, is the occasion for the exhibit of certain projects—and awards are given for outstanding work.

Project work is an important phase of Northwest School learning.

Pictures: (top to bottom)

Howard Brandt is pleased with the progress made by those hogs.

And Lloyd Duenow thinks those calves are prize-winners.

Mr. Foker and students Elvera Paulson and Evelyn Rausch inspect the canning exhibits.

Mrs. Dunham and Mrs. Foker are keenly interested in the latest tsyles.

Marion Nelson's summer home project was Home Beautification and a beautiful job was done by him.