Armistice Day was solemnly observed by the Northwest School with a special assembly held on November 11 at 11:30 in the morning. Inclement weather prevented the traditional march to the campus monument where annually a wreath is placed by the president of the Senior Class.

Opening the program was the singing of "America the Beautiful" by the entire assembly. Miss Webster then read the poem "In Flanders' Fields" by Joyce Kilmer. Superintendent T. M. McCall gave a tribute to the one hundred and sixty Northwest School students who served in the World War.

Rev. W. E. Brown

The chief address was given by Reverend Waldo E. Brown, pastor of the First Church of Christ of Crookston. Following the chief address the choir sang "The National Hymn". The program was concluded with the traditional tribute paid by the president of the Senior Class, Alton Knutson, who then proceeded to the monument where the floral wreath was placed.

The Armistice Day program is one of the most impressive of the school year.
