GIRLS' CLASS BASKETBALL

A total of twelve basketball games are played in the annual inter-class basketball tournament conducted throughout the playing season. Each class meets the other three classes twice. At the end of the playing season the team finishing with the highest percentage of victories is awarded the silver trophy and individual members of that team are given class numerals.

Excitement and class spirit run high at these games. Practically the entire student body turns out for the girls' games.

The inter-class basketball games do much to school spirit at the Northwest School.
