

Homecoming

A glittering maroon and gold lighted campus brought new vivacity to the Northwest School on the occasion of the combined Homecoming festivities and Alumni Reunion, which were held October thirtieth. Many alumni and former students in uniform were guests of the school at both the banquet and the programs following.

This year for the first time since the inauguration of football, we were unable to have a game on our campus on Homecoming Day. Instead, a queen was chosen by the general student body to reign over the evening's festivities which were held in the gymnasium.

The program opened with the coronation ceremony, heralded by the bugler. Angeline Quantock, attired in a gold formal and a maroon robe, went forth to be crowned Queen of Homecoming by the Master of Ceremonies, Glen Holmquist. Her two attendants were Clara Stromstad and Cheryl Bjella.

In honor of the queen, Grace Dahlen and Geneva Iverson sang two duets; and a barber shop quartet in costume, danced and sang for her majesty. The Play Production class and the Freshmen entertained the entire company with their original Homecoming skit.

The day's festivities closed with the traditional dance in the gymnasium and a party in the Aggie Inn for those who did not care to dance. And so until another fall, we bade the "homecomers" au revoir.
