

Livestock Judging

R. Davids, D. Steinhauer, E. Peterson, K. Miller, R. Schneider, K. Johnson, Mr. Kiser.

Because careful appraisal of livestock is so vital to successful farming, boys at the Northwest School find Livestock Judging worthy of the time and effort they put forth. The boys, under the skillful direction of Mr. O. M. Kiser, learn to judge various kinds of livestock for the market and breeding.

The livestock judging squad this year consists of: Robert Davids, William Geddes, Kenneth Johnson, Kenneth Miller, Edmond Pederson, Robert Schneider, and Donald Steinhauer. From these Mr. Kiser will select three to represent the Aggies at the annual Winter Shows in Crookston where they will compete with other student judges. These three boys will each receive a gold "A" medal.
