

Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom

On March 3, 1945, about five o'clock the couples began to wend their way toward the dining hall. The occasion being, of course, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The tables were arranged in the shape of an anchor thus carrying out the theme of "Under the Deep Blue Sea." Franklin Zak was the toastmaster and a short address of welcome was given by the junior class president, Gordon Thureen, with the response by Harold Younggren, the president of the senior class.

The prom opened with the traditional Grand March led by the president of the junior class. The gymnasium was a wall of blue crepe paper streamers dotted now and then with fishes of many colors and sizes. One of the main points of interest was a huge mermaid at one end of the gym. The punch stand was, naturally, one of the busiest places during the evening. It was supported by an anchor; and two little mermaids, Beulah Stromstad and Rose Marie Kochmann, flitting around serving punch adding to the evening's enjoyment. The music was furnished by the Knights of Harmony. At eleven-thirty a very enjoyable and memorable evening came to an end.
