

Advanced Day

After four years of serving their school they came to the day of glory on the thirteenth of March. Their theme was Stratospheric Age. For a whole day they reigned over the Northwest School. The girls wore dark skirts and white blouses while the boys wore dark trousers and white shirts with bow ties.

The greatest event in the day was the assembly program in which all the members of the class took part. Glen Holmquist acted as master of ceremonies. The class skit continued their theme. The class key was presented by Kenneth Price, the advanced class president. Then with royalty, Glen Holmquist crowned Florence Urbaniak as queen and Kenneth Price as king. Their attendants were Orrin Madson, Louise Nelson, Calmer Johnson, and Geraldine Nelson.

In the evening a banquet was given in honor of the class. The day came to a merry close with dancing in the Aggie Inn with poignant memories of four great years at this school.
