The class of 1947 began its student career at the Northwest School as enthusiastic, but somewhat bewildered, Freshman on October 2, 1944. Under the direction of Mrs. Clark and Mr. Lysaker they were initiated into the routine of school life and scored a real triumph when they out-ranked the Advanced class in the spring field meet.

Returning for their Junior year, they enthusiastically directed their energies toward the presentation of their prom. The prom with its gay waiters and waitresses, the Coconut Inn, and the Royal Hawaiian Orchestra, and an evening in "The South Sea Islands", was greatly enjoyed by all the prom-goers. That spring they ranked second in the field meet. Miss Erickson and Mr. Bennett, their class advisers for the Junior year, are also with them this year.

With a spurt of musical drive, the Seniors came up from the fourth place held the first two years to the second place—a scant two points behind the leading Advanced class. Retaining most of the original membership of the Freshman year and much of the enthusiasm of previous years, we hope that our greatest accomplishment will be the publication of this 1947 Aggie.
