

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Three short years ago, 108 bashful people entered the Northwest School to continue their education. These same people compose the present senior class of 1950, believe it or not.

The girls took up rooms in Senior Hall with Mrs. Edwards for their house mother. The boys called Stephens Hall home, where Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Lysaker are house mothers. Here they spent their spare time polishing shoes, and in other ways serving as flunkéys for upperclassmen. For our class advisers we chose Mr. Harry Soderburg and Miss Alice Anderson, who in our junior year changed her name to Mrs. Ittner.

We passed our freshman year with few difficulties and eagerly awaited our junior year when we would cease to be green freshmen.

In our junior year our boys started to make the teams and squads around the campus. We found our place on the basketball, football, and wrestling teams. We were also represented in the advanced choir, glee club, crops judging, debate teams, and the cheerleading squads.

The biggest event in the year was the junior-senior banquet and prom. For out theme we chose "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star." This was carried out in the decorations for the banquet. The gymnasium was decorated with blue and silver paper and a huge star hung from the ceiling. A baby spot played on the star. Kenneth Szymanski, president of the junior class, and his date, Patricia Jensen, led the Grand March and started the dancing to the smooth strains of music provided by the Kampus Kings. This year it was our turn to be guests of the junior class at the banquet and prom.

Ordering class rings, exchanging pictures, working on the Aggie, putting on the senior class play have all combined to make this the busiest year in our school career.
