

SHIRLEY DALAGER

HOMER D. FAUSCH

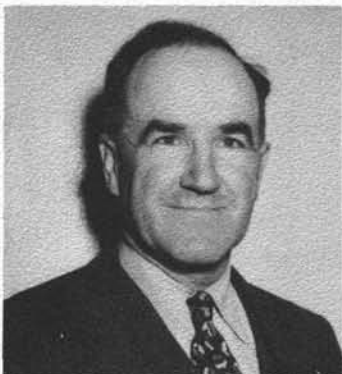

ARNOLD A. FOKER

BRUCE C. BERESFORD

RETTA BEDE

WILLIAM M. BARRON

E. N. REIERSGORD

MR. REIERSGORD not only teaches algebra, business law, and advises the National Honor Society but also acts as registrar which is comparable to a principal in other high schools.

If you haven't been enrolled in MR. FOKER'S classes of carpentry and mechanical drawing you haven't received all the knowledge and enjoyment you should get out of your high school life. MR. FAUSCH brings out the ability of each and every student in his livestock classes. Quick sharp answers are expected by him. He also finds time in his busy schedule for leadership of the Hi-Y Club on the campus. Besides being head nurse of our Health Service where she quickly aids the recovery of the patients with her sunny disposition, MISS DALAGER also teaches nursing and public health. Apples, peas, protozoa, ivy, and oak — if you don't know what they are, you haven't paid attention in MR. BERESFORD'S biology or botany courses in which he is very well versed. As you walk past the Home Economics Building the odor of tasty foods greets you. This fragrance is coming from the cooking class taught by MISS BEDE. She also has the job of looking after the welfare of the girls who live in the New Dorm, whose interest she always has at heart. Can't you figure out what makes your tractor tick or why your old car won't run? Attend MR. BARRON'S motors and field machinery classes where you not only learn mechanics but maybe you'll be able to catch a bit of MR. BARRON'S good sense of humor as well.
