MARGARET LARSEN

JEAN KJORLIE

MISS PETERSON not only teaches her pupils how to make their music float through the air, but also helps the girls physical education class float in the swimming pool. Many of them are learning to swim under her excellent directions. The ever faithful and patient assistant of the Health Service is MRS. MACREA. She is always there to help relieve you from ailments and to assist Miss Dalager in the never ending duties of the Health Service. As head coach of the football and basketball teams, MR. LYSAKER'S intentions are not only to build an athlete but to develop character which will reflect the training of each student as a member of his team. As the school's home project supervisor he visits the homes of the students during the summer. Wrestling, which is becoming more popular, is under the watchful eye of MR. LARSON. He also coaches freshmen football, and is a preceptor in Selvig Hall. MISS LARSEN'S extensive traveling experience enables her to make her American History, British Literature, and journalism classes very interesting and beneficial to all students. She is always putting "light on the subject" by relating some bit of her knowledge or showing some of her many pertinent slides or film strips. One of the most outstanding personalities on this campus is that of MISS KJORLIE. Her wonderful sense of humor is reflected in her play production and sophomore English classes.
