Under the direction of Coaches Lysaker and Whiting the Aggies' 1953 football team had another successful season. After losing sixteen senior lettermen, Coach Lysaker said, "This year's team made more progress in developing than any team I have ever coached." Most of the players were back a week early working hard to make the team. After little more than a week's practice we lost our first two games to Crookston Cathedral and the rugged Warren team. Then we really started to roll and won the remaining five games without much trouble. The Aggies retained the Aggie Conference Football Championship overcoming the Grand Rapids Aggies 49-0 in our Homecoming game keeping "The Little Brown Jug." Our team went to Morris for their Homecoming and retained "Ossie," the pig, by defeating the Morris Aggies 13-7.
