The Northwest harriers had a good season this year. The weather was ideal at every meet. The cross country team won three dual meets; second place in the Tri-conference meet; and lost one dual meet with the Morris Aggies. Cross country is not notably a spectator's sport. However, the members of this hill-and-dale sport make up for this by their enthusiasm and interest in improving their long-distance running. Diligence and determination are first requisites for good milers.
