Parents view students second home.

Every year before leaving for Thanksgiving vacation we invite our parents to "Parents Day." This is a day set aside for them to view the operations of the NWSA in action. During the festivities of the day the faculty and students entertain the parents. The students also display the accomplishments of their work on their summer projects.

The day's entertainment began in the auditorium where the musical groups presented a short program. Then the Home Economics students modeled dresses made in their classes.

The afternoon festivities came to a close in the gym with the annual home project display and a social hour.
