

The original Hill Building was completed in 1912. Dedication ceremonies took place on December 5, 1912. This same building, as the main classroom education building on campus, remained with us in this capacity through the winter semester of 1959. The top picture shows the new building that replaced the old landmark pictured below.

The dedication of this new building took place on Parents' Day, November 24, 1959. Dean Fenske of the University of Minnesota was guest speaker.

The original Hill Building was dedicated to the man who gave the tract of land on which our school stands. His name was James J. Hill.
