Student Council

The purpose of the Student Council is to give the students a voice in school affairs. It serves as a mediator between the faculty and the student body, which has delegated spokespersonship to its elected representatives. These representatives have been elected by their respective classes while their president has been elected by the entire student body.

If students have problems they feel should be presented to the faculty for discussion, the student council members listen to all sides of the issues and make sure that the faculty understands the desires of the students they represent, thus the student council is in reality a very important connecting link between the students and their administration.

Student Government . . . excels in preparation for homecoming, the junior-senior prom, dances, convocations, and Parents' Day and promotes projects such as co-operation between the classes.

One of the recent issues that is being worked out concerns the "Teen-Age Code"—a list of proper dress and conduct rules that is to be adopted by the students on our campus. Not only has this code met with a great deal of support from the students, but it has received widespread approval from the faculty.
