Ensembles

Because they like to play, and learn more about music, some people that play different instruments have joined together to form small ensembles, which is just one other way to build in technique and reading power outside of the regular band rehearsal.

Not only does this group have fun reading new music, they can relax and clown on certain times. Although some of the practice time is scheduled by Mr. Thorson, most of their practice is done on their own.

Throughout the year these small groups have an opportunity to play for such occasions as Parents' Day, the Christmas concert, and during the assembly programs.
