Football practice began a week before school commenced. The first few days were spent getting in shape and going over basic fundamentals. Toward the end of this rigorous week, the first scrimmage was held. Those of us not in condition experienced sore muscles, tired bodies, and many bruises. As camp ended, a sigh of relief and a feeling of pride were felt among the boys who had tried to do their very best.

When school began, many boys, who were unable to come the first week, checked out uniforms and really worked to make up for lost time. As the season progressed and boys began to fit into the different positions and formations, they received full satisfaction for their work.
