

Emphasized in English

Throughout reading, we have rewarding moments in adventure that we will treasure forever. We learn about people and places, new and exciting problems that help us to understand more fully some of the complex nature of the human society in which we live.

Mrs. Reynolds, Mr. Flancher, Mr. Mazzitelli and Mr. Heckman gives each student a chance to get extra research through projects and term papers and a variety of reports.

From the research that has been done on these projects, each student carries with him some important facts and ideas of the centuries of progress which constitutes our English heritage.
