

Basketball Is a Major Winter Sport

The idea of basketball was first introduced by Dr. James A. Naismith, the director of physical education at the Y.M.C.A. College in Springfield, Massachusetts, in 1891. His idea in presenting this sport was to create interest in the gymnasium during the winter months. It wasn't, however, until 1892 that the first official game was played. From this time on the game spread like wildfire across the nation to community centers, gymnasiums, until today it is known to nearly every boy and girl.

Our coach, Mr. Lysaker, has worked very hard with our team to build it into a unit that is hard to beat. All indications show that this year's team, though it is in a process of building, will prove to be one of the finest in recent school history.
