

Wrestling Provides an Active

One of the oldest known sports to man is wrestling. In ancient Greece at the Olympic games, wrestling was an integral part of the Pentathlon. Earlier peoples, the Babylonians, Egyptians, and Hindus, taught their young people a form of wrestling as a military need. Today, wrestling provides our young people with an active type of sport that is good for building strong bodies as well as offering a sport that is universally recognized for its values.

Wrestling co-captains for the 1962-63 season, Wilfred Huot and Ronald Beauchane are pictured with Coach Mosher.

FRONT ROW: Dale Demers, Leroy Sikorski, Robert Sewill, Ronald Beauchane, Donald Kovar, Dacian Bienek. BACK ROW: Coach Mosher, David Flaten, Ronald Thorson, Robert Bergeron, Drew Larson, Wilfred Huot, Larry Paupst.