

Drivers Training

A favorite elective on campus is driver's training. It is regarded as a valuable course which impresses upon students the importance of traffic safety. A certain portion of the course is devoted to classroom work; the rest consists of actual behind-the-wheel practice. The three general aims of the courses are: safety, efficient movement in traffic, and enjoyment. The instructor, Mr. Vraa, believes that for young people between the ages of 15 and 18 years, it is the best time to study and practice driving because it is then that most of your driving habits will be learned.

Mr. Vraa, the drivers training teacher, instructs Larry Wilkens as to the correct procedure of starting the new training car.
