

A challenging route

Learning about people and places presents new and exciting problems which help us in understanding more fully the complex human society in which we live.

Reading shall never cease to reward us with moments in adventure and drama, which we will treasure forever.

James Gatheridge, PICTURED ABOVE, takes his turn at reading Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

MR. ROBERT HECKMAN, Fertile, Minnesota; B. A., Concordia College; English III, World History; Year-book Advisor, Sophomore Class Advisor.