

Week

Several hundred attended the special honors banquet Thursday evening.

Performing at the banquet was the Denny-Paul Trio from North Dakota State University.

Banquet

Seven individuals were honored at the banquet held at the new school dining hall Thursday evening of Dedication Week.

Presented plaques in recognition of distinguished service toward the development of the new school were: Marvin Campbell, Crookston, President of First National Bank, and a member of the State College Board; Thomas E. Hagen, president of the Northwest Educational Improvement Association and administrator of Bethesda Hospital; Herman Skyberg, Fisher, regent of the University of Minnesota; Richard Fitzsimmons, Argyle, representative in the Minnesota State Legislature; Donald Sinclair, Stephen, Minnesota State Senator; Keith McFarland, St. Paul, assistant dean of the Institute of Agriculture; and Stanley Wenberg, St. Paul, vice president of Educational developments, University of Minnesota.

Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom also cited two administrators, Dr. B. E. Youngquist and Principal E. N. Reiersgord, Northwest School of Agriculture, for the generous contributions to the establishment of the school.

Director of the St. Cloud Choir which presented a concert Friday evening is shown with pianist, Mrs. Ann Miller.

Concert

A musical highlight, the appearance of the seventy-voice St. Cloud College Choir, directed by Harvey Waugh, capped the festivities of Dedication week. Ann Schaffert Miller, a piano solist of great talent captivated the audience with her technical skill and personal charm. This concert was a fitting climax to an exciting and history making week.

Mrs. Ann Miller is performing one of her selections at the concert.
