It's been a new world of discovery for freshmen, this experience of going to college. Though some always falter or fall, this year's class has, on the whole, held its own scholastically. About fifty percent of the students honored on the Dean's List each quarter have been freshmen. Nine have consistently earned a place in the top echelons. Did the men outnumber the women here? Of course, because there are six times as many males enrolled.
