

Pure Snow, No Blow Greet Winter Fete

Clear, cool weather, and lots of white stuff cooperated February 1,2,3 for Tech's annual Snow Days. Festivities started Thursday evening with broomball at the Crookston Arena and the coronation of the king and queen, JoAnn Miller and Gerald Bunkowske.

Before the volleyball game Friday between the faculty and students (the faculty won) and the basketball contest between the Trojans and Hibbing State, there was a special lighting ceremony during which the new campus lighting system was officially turned on by State Rep. Richard Fitzsimons. This was followed by a torchlight parade and a pep rally.

Students and faculty dressed in their best to attend the buffet dinner held in the main dining room on Saturday evening. Afterwards they all cavorted to the music of the Back Street Journals at the Crookston Elks Club. So ended another winter quarter high jinks.
