

Wings and Things

The wild blue yonder is the environment liked best by the Flying Trojans, Inc., Tech's aviation club. Composed of enrollees in Ag Aviation and other students and adults with flying infection, the group is headed by Reed Owens. Dennis Hjelle serves as vice-president; and Rick Kaltenberg, as secretary-treasurer. Steve Josephson is parliamentarian; Paul Hagen, publicity director; Frederick Hein, historian; and Jerry Olsonowski, sergeant-at-arms.

Though the cold winds blew, eight members of the Flying Trojans went out to the airport to pose with their new plane. The men shown are Hein, Olsonowski, Schwenzfeier, Hagen, Kaltenberg, Skolness, Hjelle, and Owens.

To assist Minnesota Tech vets in adjusting to collegiate life and to attract former servicemen to UNTI is the official objective of the Veterans Club, organized fall quarter. Officers are Darrell Hoyle, commander; Lowell Peterson, vice commander and student senate representative; Allan Amiot, secretary-treasurer; and David Hoff, adviser.

Lanctot made a sales pitch to Sanford, Houge, and Owens in the Vets' Book Store. Below: Here are the Vets. Seated are Lanctot, Cyr, Peterson, Oxborough, Amiot, Martin, Christen, Moritz, and Cordes. Standing are Hoyle, Burtness, Adviser Hoff, Haroldson, Erickson, and Bang.
